Scott Paul Selections is the import company that Scott Wright started in 2005. He spends eight weeks a year in Burgundy and hand picks great wines whether it is an established superstar or the next generation of rising stars. When Scott picks a Burgundy wine to import he must love the wine and love the people that make it. He states "I'm on a mission to bring the best of Burgundy to America. I personally taste and select every wine that we import and sell. I only bring in wines grown and made by people who are committed to the highest quality and attention to detail."

These are wines that he passionately believes in. Authentic wines made by real people. He searches for true values in wine considering the appellation and the price point. As he would say he wants to offer "the best bang for your buck in the burgundy book, period."

Domaine Buisson-Charles – Meursault

"This 12.5 acre domaine is directed by 4th generation vigneron Michel Buisson and his daughter and son-in-law Catherine & Patrick Essa. For those who enjoy very pure, elegant and intense white burgundies, Buisson-Charles should be on your list. The wines are clearly built with the express intention of long aging potential." Allen Meadows, Burghound.com – July 2006. The fourth generation to exploit these gorgeous holdings in Meursault. Vines are over 100 years old in some parcels. The wines are concentrated, classic, rich, and long – and they are flat-out built to age. The Meursault Vieilles Vignes is from vines averaging 65+ years of age.

Champagne Marc Chauvet-Rilly-la-Montagne

Based in the tiny village of Rilly-la-Montagne, the Chauvets have been making Champagne here since 1529. Winemaker Clotilde Chauvet and her viticulturist brother Nicolas are putting the family's 479 years of experience into every bottle produced from their 32 acre estate on the Montagne de Reims. They produce non-vintage Brut cuvees that are generally 2/3 Pinot Noir and 1/3 Chardonnay, and vintage bottlings that are about 70% Chardonnay. The style is refined, clean, bright and intensely flavorful.

Chateau des Rontets

Perched high atop the Mâconnais village of Fuissé, Chateau des Rontets is a rarity among Burgundian domaines in that virtually all of their 15 acres are one walled-in vineyard, the magnificent Clos Varambon. The vineyard and modest chateau have been in the family of Claire Gazeau since 1850. Claire and her husband Fabio took over the estate in the late 90s. They are blessed with several parcels of very old vines, with several sections of the clos planted between 1910-1920. They produce three different cuvées of Pouilly-Fuissé each vintage – one from just the oldest vines, another from several different parcels planted from 1945-1975, and the third from a single parcel just outside the walls. Just down the road, they own 1.22 acres in Saint-Amour, with Gamay vines planted in 1970. Saint-Amour is one of the most elegant of the prestigious Crus of Beaujoulais.

Domaine J-J Confuron – Premeaux

One of Burgundy's most highly-regarded estates, the 20 acres of Domaine Jean-Jacques Confuron is now controlled by Sophie Meunier-Confuron and her husband Alain Meunier, who work together as a team in the vineyards and the cellar. They took over from Sophie's father in 1988, and converted all parcels to organic viticulture in 1990. The wines are brilliant examples of the concept of "power without weight", with great depth of flavors wrapped up in refinement and elegance. The entire range is outstanding here – the Côte de Nuits-Villages is a tremendous value for the quality, and their Romanée-Saint Vivant is a reference standard for one of the most refined of all Grand Crus.

Domaine Aleth Girardin – Pommard

We are proud to bring the wines of Madame Aleth Girardin back into the U.S. Until we started up with her in 2004, the last vintage she exported here was 1993. A former importer reportedly pushed her to use more new oak – and she decided she'd rather stop exporting than change her ways. We love her wines just the way they are. Unadulterated, ripe and lush, these are the most feminine and juicy Pommards you are ever likely to taste. As far back as her family can be traced, they have been making wine in Pommard – too many generations to count. Average vine age here is 60+ years – the parcels of Epenots and Rugiens were planted in 1906! "I have long been an admirer and collector of the wines of Aleth Girardin since the 1990 vintage and bought quite a number of her stunning '93s. Her wines have been absent from the US market however for some years. This is the kind of domaine that will appeal greatly to Burghound readers, and I encourage you to take a close look. "

Frédéric Gueguen/Domaine des Chenevières– Chablis

Young Frédéric Gueguen is the son-in-law of Chablis star Jean-Marc Brocard, and he started his own domaine in 2003. He was fortunate to be able to purchase a collection of superbly situated old-vine parcels (dating to 1928), with lovely pieces of village-level Chablis as well as the 1er Cru Côte de Lechet, Fourchaume, and the rarely seen l'Homme Mort. As is traditional in Chablis, the wines are fermented and aged 100% in stainless steel – he uses absolutely no oak whatsoever. The wines are totally pure expressions of the unique and powerful terroirs of France's most northerly still-wine grape growing region. "I was extremely impressed with the wines, and this is clearly a domaine to watch closely." Allen Meadows, Burghound

Domaine Huber-Verdereau – Volnay

"The young and very talented Thiébauld Huber, who is something of a protégé of Jean-Pierre Charlot (of Domaine Joseph Voillot), is from Alsace and is a former sommelier. 1994 was his first harvest in Burgundy as he started with only 3 ha but now exploits 6.5 in 11 different appellations. He started farming biodynamically in 2002 and the entire estate is now Demeter-certified biodynamic. Thiébauld's wines from Volnay, Pommard and Puligny-Montrachet are dense, concentrated, vibrant and alive with complex flavors and aromas, and tend to blossom over many years in the bottle. "The Huber-Verdereau wines are by far the most interesting discovery I made on this trip and I highly recommend them to you. As the scores and comments suggest, they're well worth investigating." Lucien Le Moine

Lucien Le Moine is one of Burgundy's highest-scoring and most exciting new producers. A micro-producer, in fact – making in most cases only 25-50 cases of each of the stunning wines in their range (which includes nearly a dozen Grand Crus!) Mounir Saouma and his wife Rotem Brakir started in the 1999 vintage, and have quickly produced some of the most talked-about and sought-after bottlings that Burgundy has to offer. Please call or email for availability on the offering of the 2007 vintage.

Benjamin Leroux

Leroux, who completed his tenth harvest at Pommard's Domaine Comte Armand in 2008 and continues to make the wines there, has a new project—a négociant operation in which he buys fruit from other growers. He did a little negoce activity at Comte Armand, but that has now ceased; he continues to use some of those sources in this new, separate endeavor, his own label simply called Benjamin Leroux.

Domaine René Leclerc – Gevrey–Chambertin

The always outspoken and iconoclastic René Leclerc – a true character, flowing white mane and all – took over his half of the family domaine in 1976. They have 29 acres in and around Gevrey–Chambertin, including the sought after 1er Crus Lavaut St. Jacques and Combe aux Moines, and Grand Cru Griotte Chambertin that is drop–dead gorgeous. René's son François is now in charge of vinification at the domaine, and if possible the wines are getting even better (François is also making wines from his own tiny estate, and we'll have miniscule quantities of the Domaine François Leclerc wine to offer as well.). The vines average 50–80 years old. The wines are the epitome of grace and elegance, understated yet very concentrated and pure. New oak is generally not in use here – 0% for 2005 and again in 2006.

Domaine Jean–Marc Millot – Nuits St. –Georges

The winery and cellars are in ancient Nuits St. –Georges, and Jean–Marc Millot's 17 acres of vineyard holdings are concentrated in Vosne–Romanée, Vougeot, and Echezeaux. Jean–Marc took over the domaine in 1990, but has had most of the Grand Cru sites since only 1998 (his wife was an heir to the old Louis Gouroux domaine.) His wines are the epitome of elegance, purity, and understatement, with a beautiful sense of finesse, harmony and overall balance.

Domaine Ninot –Rully

Young mademoiselle Erell Ninot is the latest in a very long line to take control of the family estate in the Côte Chalonnaise (the section of Burgundy just south of the Côte d'Or.) Many of our producers go back 7 or 8 generations. Domaine Ninot goes back to 1313! Yes, that's 1313 – as in the middle ages – a mere 695 years ago. Erell is an energetic dynamo, in full charge of all viticulture and winemaking for the 29 acre estate. Erell keeps her yields low (about 2 tons to the acre for the Pinot, under three tons for the Chardonnay), and uses a judiciously small amount of new oak – an average of about 10–15%. The wines are supple and vibrant and pure and quite simply a delight.

Domaine Thibert Pere et Fils – Maconnais

Christophe Thibert and his sister Sandrine are now at the helm of this venerable 60 acre estate in the Mâconnais. The Mâcon region is home to some of the greatest–value white wine appellations in all of Burgundy, and the Thiberts have extensive holdings in St. Veran, Mâcon, and Pouilly–Fuissé, including some old–vine parcels over 85 years old. The vineyards are now organic, all fruit is picked by hand (not a universal practice in this region), & the wines are hallmarked by their intensity, purity and length. These wines often blow away many Côte de Beaune whites at a fraction of the price.

Domaine Anne & Hervé Sigaut — Chambolle-Musigny

The Sigauts have been passionately but quietly making gorgeous wines in the tiny village of Chambolle-Musigny for generations. The secret is out and the quiet is about to be a thing of the past. The estate totals 17 acres, including spectacular old-vine parcels of Chambolle 1er Crus Les Fuées, Les Sentiers and Noirots — many of which are plowed by horse. Hervé follows the lunar calendar for most activities in the vineyard and cellar, and prefers to touch the wine as little as possible during élevage. The winemaking facility was re-built in 2004, with a sorting table, all stainless-steel fermentation tanks, and full temperature control. New oak is kept to a maximum of 40%. The wines are thoroughbred examples of the magnificent terroirs of Chambolle-Musigny. Recently the 2006 Sentier was listed as one of the Wine Spectator's 'hot wines'.

Domaine Taupenot-Merme — Morey-St. Denis

At nearly 30 acres, Domaine Taupenot-Merme is a rather large estate by Burgundian standards. The roots of the family estate go back to the 1760, and today's superb vineyard holdings in Gevrey-Chambertin, Morey-St. Denis and Chambolle Musigny were united by the marriage of two winemaking families three generations ago. Now in the hands of 41 year-old Romain Taupenot and his sister Virginie, 36, they are the 7th generation to continue the family tradition. Parcels include significant pieces of both Charmes Chambertin & Mazoyères Chambertin and a great line-up of 1er crus including Combe d'Orveau in Chambolle-Musigny. All farming is organic and the wine style here is one of elegance and purity, with a base of finesse rather than power. The wines are superb with food, and are excellent values. More arrivals mid-March!

Domaine Viot-Guillemard — Pommard

A true character in every sense of the word, Thierry Viot sports a wild, bushy, walrus mustache that belies the understated elegance in his luscious wines. Where most others find aggressive tannins, Thierry finds the finesse. You will not find Pommards like this at any other address — an exquisite balance between power & grace. Stunning wines, that are SPS exclusively in the U.S. "Simply put, the performance of his 2005s is so good that I offer my unqualified enthusiasm for the wines." Allen Meadows —BH
